

So for this challenge, I find it easy to align the main contents, the heading, paragraph, images, and anchors, but I had a hard time on the header, I can easily design them and their arrangement, but my problem is that I can't center the search bar without moving the logo and navigation, so in the end I just let it be, and just use margin-left, because I have spent so much time looking and trying to do it.

It took me like 2 hours.
